BUILDING BLACK WEALTH THROUGH 5 PILLARS

LYDIA POPE, NAREB PRESIDENT

Women Investing in Real Estate (W.I.R.E.)

The Economic policy institute statistics show that 70 percent of Black children are being raised in households lead by Black women. The growth of the Black women population represents an enormous opportunity for NAREB to assist them in their wealth building strategies and career endeavors. Through a culturally sensitive and tailored educational and informational program NAREB will encourage and assist Black women in building wealth through investments in real estate as a career and as a financial investment.

Generational Wealth Building

Critical to building Black wealth is the creation and passing of wealth from one generation to another. This requires that concepts, plans, and execution must be addressed on a multigenerational basis. Through age and life-style specific initiatives, NAREB will reach and inform audiences about wealth building and homeownership. BUILD IT, KEEP IT, PASS IT (It's Your Legacy) is a three pronged educational program specific to Youth, Millennials and Seniors.

Faith Based & Community Engagement

With over 75% of Blacks affiliated with religious, civic and or professional organizations, these programs will amplify awareness and educate Blacks about building wealth. This will be accomplish through focused partnerships with national Faith Based, Civic and professional organizations: some of which include: The African Methodist Episcopal Church, The Church of God in Christ, the Alpha Phi Alpha's, Rainbow Push Coalition and others.

Diversity & Inclusion/Small Business

DSI represent a tremendous opportunity for REALTIST to garner additional business opportunities that include government and corporate procurement contracting. These NAREB programs will strengthen the business, leadership and mentorship of REALTIST members throughout the country.

Government Relations and Advocacy

Barriers to homeownership continue to keep Black homeownership well below that of our white counterparts. Through our State of Housing in Black America (SHIBA) report and our quarterly SHIBA Bytes, NAREB will continue to educate, inform, and share with members, elected officials, government staffers and others on the needs of Black Americans to close the wealth gap. NAREB will continue to use its powerful voice supporting legislation and regulatory changes designed to increase Black homeownership. Our advocacy and policy positions will be informed by data and supported by a robust, comprehensive and targeted government relations strategy.
