Doesn't Like Service Hughes Offers to Buy Airline Serving Vegas

By MIKE DOAN

LAS VEGAS (AP) — Howard Hughes' offer to buy Air West Airlines for $1.7 billion is not what it seems, it is not what it seems, it is not what it seems.

Complaints of delayed flights have been blamed by Air West officials on computer problems.

Edmund Conover, vice chairman of the company, denied there was substantial stockholder support for the Hughes purchase.

"It appears there will be a fight over this matter," he said. "We do not feel that this move is in the best advantage of Air West or the public we serve."

In New York, Air West Chairman Nick B. Grace said he and other officers representing a substantial amount of stock would support a $220-million offer from Hughes.

Air West has 17 million shares outstanding, which figure out to about 800 million in Seattle, Wash.
